Dear Cookie Monsters

When you visit Dic.Net's website, we store cookies on your computer.

Cookies for statistics:
On reseller.dic.net we use cookies in an aggregate form for statistical purposes. It gives us e.g. opportunity to get an overview of how many people visit the different sections of our website, so we can make it as user friendly as possible.

Cookies make Dic.net able to track information during the domain name registration and the package sign-up process. These cookies do not track individual information.

Information Dic.net may track includes:

- The customer's Internet Protocol address

- Browser version or computer operating system used by the customer

- Number of links the customer click within the website

- State or country from which the customer accessed the site

- Date and time of the customer's visit

- Name of the customer's Internet service provider

- Web page the customer came from when visiting Dic.net

- Pages the customer viewed on the site

Cookie Monster Continues...

We use statistics to improve the usability and the information in the statistics are anonymous and will not be linked to you as a user.

If you don't want us to set cookies, please disable cookies in your browser. This will reduce the usability of the site significantly.

Deleting cookies
Learn how to delete cookies on your computer: How do I delete cookies?

Sincerely,

Dic.Net Team